TOWN HALL NEWS

Mattapoisett Selectmen voted to put on an extra police officer for square dances and band concerts. Joseph Bauer was appointed Constable for the period while Al Faria is out sick. Constable Faria is in Tobey Hospital for surgery.

Selectmen have called for bids for the installation of a new Town Hall heating system. Bids will be opened on Tuesday, August 16, at 8 P.M.

Selectmen approved a change in the officers and directors of the Holiday House. Richard LaGreze is the new president and treasurer, and Edith LaGreze is clerk. The new officers live on Point Road, Marion.

VOTER REGISTRATION

The Town Clerk's office at Mattapoisett Town Hall will be open for voter registration on Saturday, August 13th, from 12 noon to 10 P.M.

CIVIL DEFENSE SURVEY

The Mattapoisett Civil Defense is conducting a survey to determine the number of qualified personnel and available equipment and supplies that exist in all Town departments.

Mr. Biddle is a Philadelphian who graduated from Williams College in 1953. He spent three and a half years in the Navy aboard patrol craft and a heavy cruiser. He was a packaging engineer for Container Corporation of America for five years before he began to study for the ministry. He graduated with honors from Virginia Theological Seminary in 1964. He has accepted a call to become Rector of the Church of the Annunciation in Oradell, New Jersey. He has been Curate at St. Peter's Church, Morristown, New Jersey.

He and his wife, the former Phyllis Comber, were married in 1958, and have five children. The family will be staying at #4 Mechanic Street, Mattapoisett for the month of August.

KUWAIT ATTACHE TO U.N. GUEST IN MATT.

Mr. Hasan A. Al-Ibrahim, Kuwait attache to the U. N. Mission in New York, was the guest of Mrs. Lois Doninger of Main Street, Mattapoisett, July 13-14, during the recent visit of 23 foreign diplomats to the Rodman Job Corps Center.

Interviewed at her home, Mrs. Doninger, secretary to the Rodman Center Director, said "Mr. Al-Ibrahim was delighted to see so many types living together so well at Rodman."

Mrs. Doninger said her Kuwait guest "had heard a great deal about discrimination in the United States so that he was pleasantly surprised to observe students of all races, including American Indians, eating, working, going to school and living in dorms together and in complete harmony".

"Mr. Al-Ibrahim loved Mattapoisett," said

Mrs. Doninger. "He said that if he ever decided to have a summer home in the United States he would choose Mattapoisett."

Mrs. Doninger said she, her daughter Terry 17, two friends of theirs and their Kuwait guest went to hear a band concert at the Town Wharf. "Unfortunately," said Mrs. Doninger, "it was rained out so we went swimming instead at Mattapoisett Beach. Mr. Al-Ibrahim enjoyed the quick change of plans."

Mrs. Doninger said her mother, Mrs. Anastasia Fielding, became very attached to Mr. Al-Ibrahim. "He reminded her of my son Kurt who is 24 and in the Navy aboard the U.S.S. Columbus. Quite frankly, we all hated to see Mr. Al-Ibrahim leave."

But Mrs. Doninger said they have not lost contact with their guest. "We have just received a letter from him," she said, "inviting us to have lunch with him at the United Nations next week. Since he can't come to Mattapoisett, we'll take Mattapoisett to him, or at least something to remind him of an unforgettable two

CANDIDATES' NIGHT IN ROCHESTER

Greenwood Hartley, Jr., chairman of the Rochester Republican Town Committee, announces that a Candidates' Night will be held in Rochester at the Rochester Memorial School on the evening of August 23rd. Featured speaker will be Francis W. Sargent, former head of the Department of Public Works, who received the nomination for Lt. Governor at the GOP convention in June.

Frederick C. Underhill, Jr. is general chairman of the arrangements and will be assisted by members of the Town Committee. Names of additional speakers will soon be publicized. Tickets are available from any Town Committee member.

R.A. PARKER TO EXHIBIT PAINTINGS

The paintings and drawings of Robert Andrew Parker have been exhibited all over this country and in Europe and the Far East. The popularity of this artist is evident in the number of one-man shows he has had and the awards he has won. Presently some of his paintings are in the permanent collections of the Museum of Modern Art, The Whitney Museum, and various other museums from Brooklyn to Arizona.

Inconsistency seems to make Parker's work abstract yet realistic, fantastic yet logical. His subjects range from swirling forms in the sea to set designs for an opera. He has done illustrations for the poetry of e.e. cummings, Auden and others. In 1955 Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer hired Parker to do the drawings for its film Lust for Life. The experience of being Van Gogh in the actual settings of his tragic career appears to have drawn Parker into this vicarious voyage through the other artist's life. Before this, World War I absorbed him completely, and it seems as if he had been commissioned to record every incident of the struggle, although the pictures are imaginary.

Parker has been called the master of line and was included in a group with Calder, Stuart Davis, and Morris Graves by La Napoule Art Foundation in France. He has also done some oils in a very painterly style using wide brush strokes and almost moulding the paint into a relief. There are a number of watercolors in this show which combine line and pure color shapes.

Spontaneity probably is the key to Parker's success. He works continuously and intensively, never knowing what subject will absorb him next. The result is a wonderfully varied and exciting collection of Art which will be on display at the Marion Art Center July 31 through August 25. A special opening for members of the Art Center was held July 31st. The public is invited starting Tuesday, August 2nd. Gallery hours: 11 to 5.

A Farm Boy's Memories of 100 Years Ago IX

The Barstow School (2)

The most exciting episode occurring at the Barstow School during these years in the early 1870's when Father was a high school pupil there, threw the whole town into a furor. One wintry morning Father walked in as usual from the Neck Road to find the school house door wide open, no smoke rising from the chimney, and knots of boys and girls gabbling in the wildest excitement and running back and forth in and out of the building. He ran in with the rest to survey the cause of the excitement.

During the night some boys had broken into the school and gone to work. First, they had taken all the books and papers out of all the desks and piled them into one huge mound in front of Daniel Simeon Charles Marcellus Potter's desk. Next, they had taken down the stove pipe--quite a job in itself. It was customary in those days in a hall of any size to place the stove in the opposite side of the room from the opening into the chimney, and to run the stove pipe between the two, suspending it from the ceiling by wires. Since the stove-pipe got very hot, its heat helped to warm the room along the entire length of the pipe. The boys had taken the whole pipe--a long one--down, taken it apart in sections, and stuffed each section solidly with newspapers.

Then they had gone up into the belfry, taken down the school bell, and carried it down into the schoolroom. There they had braced it upside down on the floor and filled it with water which had frozen and cracked the bell.

The next morning the pupils were jubilant. No one had ever before dared to do mischief at school on such a gigantic scale. Father joined the gang and walked downtown to enjoy the excitement. Everywhere people were talking about it. Groups of housewives indignantly--and in loud tones--were demanding that those infernal boys should be sent to jail and be made to pay for every cent of damage. While a few of the men laughed and said boys will be boys, most of them, especially the town officials, were as indignant as the women and vowed that those cussed boys at least ought to get the licking of their lives and at most ought to be sent to states prison. The old whaling captains pounded the ground with their canes and talked about stringing them from the yard arm.

One of the most vehement of town officials was Dr. Sparrow (grandfather of Miss Minerva Sparrow and the late Bill Sparrow). Now Dr. Sparrow was a very prominent man in the community. He was not only the town's physician, but he had business interests as well. He owned Sparrows Mills just over the Marion line where Aucoot Brook flows under the main road. He owned the extensive cranberry bogs just beyond. He owned woodlots and other property. Unless my memory plays me false, he was also Postmaster. He kept a store in the present Romeo Package Store, and until very recently anyway his name could still be seen on the frosted glass of the door to his office just to the right after you entered the building. At this time he was on the School Committee.

Late in the forenoon Father and a group of boys went into the store where they were treated with angry glares and a long tirade of a variety of threats in a thundering voice: "We'll leave no stone unturned until we discover the perpetrator of this infamous vandalism, and those who are guilty will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, etc., etc." So all morning Dr. Sparrow thundered vengeance.

But in the middle of the afternoon a funny thing happened. Suddenly there was no more said, either by Dr. Sparrow or any town official, about finding who had done the deed and punishing them; for Dr. Sparrow's son Frank had confessed to his father that he was one of the guilty ones.

TRIAL OF PRISONERS IN NORTH VIETNAM TO VIOLATE GENEVA CONVENTIONS, KEITH SAYS

Washington, July 29 -- Congress should declare that the trial, punishment or execution of American prisoners in North Vietnam would violate the 1949 Geneva Conventions, Representative Hastings Keith (R-Mass.) said to-

Keith introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives which states it is the "sense of the Congress" that any such act by the North Vietnam government would be inhumanitarian, a "reprehensible offense against the peoples of the world," and "contrary to the interests of North Vietnam."

The Geneva accords set forth accepted concepts of international law and standards of international behavior. North Vietnam signed the 1949 accords.

Ho Chi Minh, North Vietnam's president, has threatened to try captured American flyers, saying that the Geneva Conventions do not apply to the present conflict because it is an "undeclared war".

If the Communist leader carries out such a threat, the resolution states that it would "seriously diminish" the opportunity for the "achievement of a just and secure peace in Vietnam and Southeast Asia, which is the objective of the people of the United States".

If the resolution is adopted by the House and the Senate, President Johnson will be requested to convey this position to the Communist regime in North Vietnam, to the participating states of the Geneva Conferences of 1954 and 1962, to the states adhering to the 1949 Geneva Conventions, and also the member states of the United Nations.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

On Friday evening, July 29, my son, complying with the ordinance concerning restraint of dogs, was walking our dog on a leash. An unrestrained dog attacked and a good fight ensued. Three men, seeing the fight, stopped their cars to help break it up, running the risk of injury to themselves in the process.

My wife and I, in the excitement, did not have time to thank the three men, but would like to do so at this time. These days we read much of public apathy in the papers -- it is good to see that there are still people in the country who will go out of their way to help a boy in distress.

Whoever you were, we thank you.

OLD GLASS EXHIBIT WEEK OF AUGUST 8-13

The special exhibit of Old Glass at the Mattapoisett Historical Museum will be held August 8-13 under the direction of a committee composed of Mr. Charles Mendell, Miss Dorothy Fox, Mrs. Lorraine Bryant and Mrs. Dennis Sylvia. During the week of the exhibit, the museum will be open daily from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 P.M. Everyone owning pieces of old glass is invited to loan items for the exhibition. Although the two main exhibits will be of Pairpoint and Sandwich glass, other makes will also be represented.

Those wishing to participate should phone one of the committee named above and leave information as to what types of pieces and how many they wish to loan. The exhibit will be set up the afternoons of Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 5, 6 and 7. Contributors are asked to bring in their glass on these dates, as the museum does not have adequate storage space for items that are brought in earlier.

The response and interest so far have been most encouraging and point to an outstanding

MATTAPOISETT GRANGE FAIR

The annual Fair of the Mattapoisett Grange, with the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture cooperating, will be held Saturday, August 27th, in the Grange Hall. The public, as well as members of the Grange, are invited to exhibit vegetables, fruit, flowers, plants and canned goods, that must be of the current year's production and prepared by the exhibitor.

Articles to be judged in the Home Economics Department must also be of the current year's making.

Members of the Grange will be solicited for departments of the Fair, such as the supper, food booth, fancy work and aprons, white elephants, candy, grabs and Penny Sale.

The Misses Doris Fearing and Susan Bence will be calling on the merchants of the community for article donations for the merchants' auction. It is hoped that the members will be

CONGRESSMAN KEITH LASHES OUT AT FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION

Washington, July 27 -- Representative Hastings Keith (R-Mass.) lashed out today at the Food and Drug Administration for holding up approval of fish protein concentrate over an alleged problem of fluoride content.

In a statement prepared for the Congressional Record, Keith expressed doubt that fluoride content is the real reason FDA has not okayed a fish protein concentrate process developed by the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

The Congressman challenged the agency to make public any valid explanations for the delay, adding that if approval is being held up for any other reasons the situation is "intolerable".

Keith said he had learned that at a high-level meeting on Monday, FDA officials told the Interior Department that fluoride content may be too high in the powdered fish extract and approval can't be given until more information is available.

"As I understand it," Keith said, "the question is not one of toxicity, but rather of possible 'cosmetic' effects." He continued, "It is thought that if large amounts of FPC were consumed by someone over a period of years, his teeth might become mottled as a result."

The veteran Massachusetts lawmaker refuted this view, saying that experts have told him mottling would not be conceivable in the United States because fish protein concentrate would "only be a very modest percentage of anyone's diet."

Mottling would not be a problem even in underdeveloped countries where fewer foods are available, Keith said. He explained that since fish protein concentrate is a supplement, it would be possible to prescribe safe levels for adding to corn meal or other foods.

In addition, Keith said he had been advised by several experts that fluoride content "is not a valid complaint" and that scientists at the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries do not feel it is significant.

Dr. Frederick Stare, world-renowned scientist and head of Harvard Medical School's Department of Nutrition, was among the experts with whom Keith discussed the problem. "These men," the Congressman said, "assure me that they have worked with FPC and...consider it to be perfectly safe."

The product has had "remarkably beneficial effects in Latin America where I saw first-hand how infants who had suffered from severe malnutrition were transformed into happy, healthy children by an FPC additive introduced into their diets," Keith recalled.

"As I am speaking", he told his House colleagues, "children all over the world are dying from malnutrition. Each moment of delay denies some of them the chance to live."
